

NAWO: DEMANDING DECENT WORK FOR DOMESTIC WORKERS WEBINAR

On October 1, 2020, NAWO organized a webinar focusing on the issues faced by the domestic workers during the pandemic time. Most of the workers are facing issues and problems that are unique and different. It was agreed in the webinar that there is a need to have a separate law to address these unique issues. There is also a need to address these concerns and develop a strategy to help the domestic workers, especially the women workers, to grow and get their benefits in this sector. The new laws proposed by the government need to be reviewed to understand what benefits are available for the domestic workers. International conventions need to be ratified so that there is an alignment between the government and ILO. There is a need to analyze the urban employment program and how it is beneficial for the domestic workers.
