NAWO organized a dialogue with women workers from different sectors (domestic work, agriculture, waste pickers, scavenging, construction and garment) on August 27, 2020. The dialogue brought forth the challenges and problems that they faced during the COVID19 pandemic. The women workers also expressed their understanding of the welfare schemes and how to obtain the benefits through these schemes. During the dialogue suggestions were made on the possible measures that can help improve the conditions of the workers and their work in the future.
